Polo Forest, also known as Vijaynagar Forest, is a dry mixed deciduous forest near Abhapur village in Vijaynagar Taluka, Sabarkantha district, Gujarat, India. Located at the foothills of the Aravalli range and on the banks of the perennial Harnav River, it spans 400 square kilometers (99,000 acres). Classified as southern tropical dry deciduous forests with a dry teak subtype, it becomes lush between September and December after the monsoon.

The forest hosts over 450 medicinal plant species, 275 bird species, 30 mammals, 9 fish species, and 32 reptiles. It includes 79 tree species, 24 herbs and shrubs, 16 climbers, and 18 grasses and bamboos. Wildlife includes sloth bears, leopards, panthers, hyenas, waterfowls, raptors, passerines, four-horned antelopes, common civet, jungle cats, and flying squirrels. Migratory birds visit in winter, and wetland birds appear during the monsoon. The endangered Grey Hornbill and Brown-headed Barbet also inhabit the forest, which is noted for its distinct multiple levels of trees.
